

To the FCC,

I have only recently become aware of the FCC's upcoming decision on media ownership. I am very concerned about the current direction of large media companies 'buying up' large portions of our country's media outlets. The Founding Fathers were very clear about freedom of speech and it must be protected. Because the major media companies have a conflict of interest to inform the public on this issue, most Americans are unaware of what is at stake. Please: 1) delay the decision deadline in order to allow more public debate, 2) since our major media companies have a conflict of interest to inform the public on this issue, please provide public service announcements about the issue so the American public can have a voice. 3) reconsider the current decision and allow for a more 'free market' in the U.S. media in order to continue one of the crucial elements of our beloved democracy.

Respectfully submitted, Sue Rogers
